

Celtic Advent Study

Celtic Advent: Following an Unfamiliar Path

Details: November 26, December 3, 10, and 17 @ 11:00 am in the Karl English Lounge

You are invited to participate in a four-week Advent study of Celtic teachings and traditions that can transform our lives in unexpected ways that will open our hearts and our spirits to new aspects of the familiar Advent journey.

You may wish to order from Amazon this recommended, but not required book: Christine Aroney-Sine's Celtic Advent: Following an Unfamiliar Path. It's got some really interesting ideas, but it's also self-published, so it lacks some polish and tends to repeat. Aroney-Sine asks: Are you caught in the tension between the familiar symbols of Nativity scenes, Christmas trees and carol singing, and the desire for something unfamiliar that will jar you into fresh perspectives on the story of Jesus' birth and the revelations we receive from the humans, animals and angels that played important parts in it? Celtic Advent: Following an Unfamiliar Path, provides this unexpected approach.

Geoffrey will use this book as a jumping off point to explore key themes in Advent.

We welcome everyone to join us ~ Feel free to bring a bag lunch and 'chat and chew' together – you may even wish to stay in the afternoon for a ukulele lesson starting at 1:00 pm!